WHAT'S NEW

Great Faculty, Great Courses

Facilitators have been working with a third group of faculty from Ridgewater College in Minnesota to redesign courses for dual delivery in the Online Course Design Institute. Each faculty member chose one course to redesign by:

- aligning the learning outcomes, assessments and activities;
- creating a communication plan for online and face-to-face communication
- ensuring course material accessibility;
- integrating learning technologies;
- assessing course quality; and
- planning for the measurement of program and institutional assessments;

This highly-rated, three week workshop is design to develop courses that produce effective teaching practices and significant learning experiences. Since the beginning of the pandemic, facilitators have worked with over 400 faculty and instructional designers through the online course and a variety of online teaching and learning conferences. Your institution can benefit as well. Learn more.

Collaboration

In June, Innovative Synergy formed a collaboration with Encore Professional Development to provide a series of educational and business learning opportunities. To learn more about how these workshops can benefit learning for your employees and faculty.

Summer Reading

One book is a must-read for faculty, leaders and instructional designers. Designing Effective Teaching and Significant Learning, will provide ways to design courses and structure organizations. Learn more and order today.
